Reset the Directory to Its Default
WordPerfect Magazine
Q&A

Q: I often work with files on my floppy drives as well as my hard drive.

Sometimes, when I'm in WordPerfect, my current default directory is changed to drive A or B during the process of retrieving or moving files. When I remove the diskette from that drive and then try to save a file or change my default drive back to C, I get the message "Drive not ready reading A."

If I try to use List (F5) to change the default drive back to C, I get the same message. What can I do?

A: There is a way to reset your current directory to its default setting without accessing List (F5). Simply play the included DEFAULT.WPM macro.
