WordPerfect 5.1 Page Border Collection
By Tom Keller, Santa Rosa, CA

The files in the included BORDERS.ZIP archive consist of WordPerfect 5.1 documents with various borders and appropriate margins pre-edited for you. These borders work beautifully with an HP LaserJet Series II printer. I cannot vouch for what they will look like on other printers.

The borders are all very similar. A BORDERS INDEX.PDF file is included to show you what each border looks like. Page 1 of the index comports with BORD001.WP, page 2 with BORD002.WP, and so forth.

The easiest way to use these borders is to unzip them into a new directory called C:\WP51\BORDERS, then use the List Files (F5) key to retrieve one of them.

The borders were all made using WordPerfect Line Drawing commands, and they may be edited or modified per your wishes. I hereby place all of them into the Public Domain.

Notes:

- The borders will not display in the main document screen but should display very well in View Document mode (Shift-F7, 6).

- For best results, you should retrieve the border into a header (Header B is probably wisest) so that it appears on every page.

- You may need to change the top, bottom, left and/or right margins of your document to make sure the border does not cover any of your text and graphics.

- You may retrieve a border into an existing document, but again, you may need to make changes to the margins.
